Sunday, April 23 — “Caring for God’s Creation”

In recognition of Earth Day’s 25th anniversary, the Environmental Taskforce of ELPC’s Justice & Global Concerns Committee has designated Sunday, April 23 as a day of “Caring for God’s Creation.” The 11 am worship service will be united around this theme with special music, children’s message, prayers and sermon. After the service, a special Fellowship Time will be held in the Courtyard (weather permitting, or in the Social Hall if not).

Twenty-five years ago on April 22, Americans came together for the very first Earth Day. The day’s founder, Gaylord Nelson, believed strongly that education is the key to changing people’s attitudes about the
A Stone Is A Stone Is A Stone

The doorbell at a former house of ours ran on batteries. So whenever the batteries went dead, people were stranded on the porch pushing the little button and wondering why no one came to greet them. Only once they knocked on the door and asked about the doorbell would I discover that I needed to buy more batteries. It was such a simple detail, but it occasionally proved to be quite an obstacle to others.

In a few weeks, we will celebrate the joyous good news of Easter, that time of resurrection, of promises come true, and new life in the risen Lord. Standing squarely in the season of Lent and looking ahead to the future date of Easter Sunday, I am mindful of an oft-overlooked detail in the resurrection drama. I am thinking about the stone—the boulder that had to be moved for the resurrected One to emerge on Easter, “stones” that block our experience of the Easter event. And the good news of Easter does not occur easily until these “stones” are rolled away.

These stones have many names. Like the defunct doorbell, it might be simple ignorance or inattention to details. It might be busyness and the demands on our lives that deaden our spiritual awareness. It might be the darkness of depression that blinds us, or the illnesses afflicting us or those we love that act as barriers to God’s Easter good news. It might be our wounded spirits from toxic “church experiences” elsewhere. It might be our inner disquiet trying to function in jobs or homes marred by violence and abuse.

To paraphrase Gertrude Stein, a stone is a stone is a stone. Recognizing it is there is the first step toward its removal.

When Jesus visited the cemetery in which they had placed Lazarus’ body, he wept outside the sealed tomb. He then commanded those standing nearby to remove the stone. And then he shouted, “Lazarus, come out!” The month of April offers a wide range of opportunities for worship at our church. Don’t let stones or other impediments keep you from benefiting from these offerings. We will continue our Lenten reflection on the stones and impediments that we encounter on our paths of faith. We will remember the authority of Christ’s words, calling us to remove these stones. And we will gather with the women at the tomb, seeing

ELPC Planning Team’s Second Report to the Congregation

Building on the insights of the Discernment Retreat Day attended by over 80 members in January 2006, the Planning Team has continued to work toward creating a strategic plan to balance the ELPC budget over the next five years in a way that reflects the mission and ministry focus of the church.

From our gathering in January, we discerned five main areas of ministry important to our special calling as a congregation:

- God, lead us in new ways…
- To be faithful stewards of God’s word in this place…
- Through more and better communication…
- Through the nurture and care of the congregation…
- Through ministry to the local and global community.

We are using these five areas of ministry as a guide in our preparation of a strategic plan and recommendations.

As we go forward in the planning process we are considering ELPC’s activities in two broad categories:

Base activities.
Include the basic costs of “Being Faithful Stewards of God’s Will in this Place.” They take our existing building as a given, along with the minimum staff and administrative costs required for preaching the Word, administering the Sacraments and offering public Worship.

Complementary activities.
Include the ministries that go beyond the core to build a vibrant and diverse congregation, nurture the spiritual development of our members, and reach out to the community in service and social witness.

We do not mean to suggest that either set of activities is more important than the other. Our intent is to build on the enthusiasm we have heard from the congregation about its ministries by clearly communicating that the life of this church is ours to support through leadership, active involvement and financial giving.

Planning Committee Timeline
March — Identify underlying philosophy for reshaping the budget; identify targets for budget adjustments/stewardship challenges by broad area; assign data gathering and report-drafting tasks for April.

April — Draft preliminary sequence of budget adjustments and stewardship challenges; finalize draft report with explanatory and philosophical material; assign tasks for focus group in May.

May — Hold focus group for a diverse group of 12-30 members to respond to draft report; reflect on focus group results and identify areas needing adjustment; assign drafting tasks for June.

June — Meet for final adjustment and approval of report; present report to Session.

The minutes of the last Annual Congregational Meeting of Feb 27, 2005 and the January 8, 2006 Special Congregational Meeting were approved.

The Nominating Committee presented the following slate of officers for election:

Centennial Fund Trustee—Class of 2008: Christopher Martin.

The question was raised as to whether the congregation would be educated in the purpose and function of the acolytes during the 11 am worship service. Dr. Szremeny and Worship, Music & The Arts Committee will take this under advisement and report their decision to the Session.

The Annual Report of 2005 and the budget of 2006 were presented and discussed. A motion was made and approved to receive the Annual Report of

The Rev. Cynthia I. Jackson
Interim Director of Christian Education

The Christian Education ministry is dedicated to teaching and being taught about our relationships with God, neighbors and self. ADULT CHURCH SCHOOL

Contemporaries
The Contemporaries class offers presentations and discussions on a variety of subjects including theology, spirituality and current events. Through support and fellowship, study and discussion, the members of this class seek to grow in their faith. Second Floor Parlor.

April 2 & 9 “A Protestant Journey into Eastern Christianity,” A 3-class series which began March 26. Led by Dr. John Burgess, Professor of Systematic Theology, Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. John Burgess and his family lived all of last year in Russia and worshiped every Sunday in an Orthodox church. In this series, John talks about how these experiences have reshaped his life.

April 2 “Beauty and Justice.” The Orthodox see beauty as a witness to God. We will talk about how beauty can communicate a vision of God’s righteousness and love.

April 9 “Can There Be Eucharist Without Eucharist?” John and his family could not take the Lord’s Supper all year in the Orthodox church; and, yet, they still experienced people’s love for them. We will talk about the meaning of communion in a divided world.

April 16 No class. Easter Breakfast, see page 1.

Seekers
The Seekers class explores issues of faith and spiritual growth through a variety of lenses such as focused Bible readings, books by current authors’ presentations of theology and study of religious art. Leaders include class members, church staff and guest presenters.

April Class Series
“Crossing the Racial Divide—America’s Struggle for Justice and Reconciliation.” Led by the Rev. Cynthia Jackson. This series invites people to equip themselves to participate in racial reconciliation and healing through relationship building, education, and the creative transformation of structures of exclusion and discrimination. Using insights from the neighborhood and the gospel, new strategies for racial reconciliation and justice are encouraged. Based on a collection of essays from the Sojourner’s study, Crossing the Racial Divide: America’s Struggle for Justice and Reconciliation. The book is in the ELPC bookstore for $6.

April 2 Powers and Principalities of Racism.

The survival and persistence of racism in our society, despite efforts to overcome it, reveals that for too long we have failed to recognize the true nature of the problem. Racism is a spiritual issue. Neither its causes nor solutions will be found through government programs, social ministries, or our own best intentions. The forces which perpetuate racism are rooted in spiritual

April 23 What is Stephen Ministry? Stephen Ministry is grounded in Jesus’ command to love one another. Through one-to-one caring and confidential relationships, those who are hurting receive the love and care they need to support them. Join us for this extremely important series led by Lois Lang and selected Stephen Ministers.

A Stephen Minister IS...a child of God who walks beside a hurting person, and a caring Christian friend who really listens. A Stephen Minister IS NOT...a counselor or therapist, a problem solver, or a casual visitor. Every member of the congregation may become involved by praying for our Stephen Ministers; remaining sensitive to those who need caring support; and making others aware of the support system that is available.

realities or principalities that require us to call out to God for spiritual solutions.

April 9  New Data from America.
In the years since the beginning of the civil rights movement, America has become increasingly complex racially, socially and in many other ways. While this expansion of diversity broadens our perspective and deepens our understanding of the world we live in, how does it affect our work for justice beyond the paradigm of black and white?

April 16  No class. Easter Breakfast, see page 1.

April 23  The Spirit is Moving.
There are signs and wonders of racial healing in our communities that show that people from diverse constituencies can come together and work toward racial justice in new ways. How do forgiveness and a culture of grace set us free?

April 30  Strategies to Move Us Forward.
The work for racial justice and reconciliation calls for new ideas and strategies that will reach beyond our own limited agendas. How do we challenge the obstacles? Do we need a second wave of the civil rights movement?

Lectionary Bible Study
Study the scripture texts based on the Revised Common Lectionary. Each week, texts from the Old Testament, a Psalm, an Epistle, and a gospel reading will be identified. The sequence of these texts within the liturgical seasons of the church year provides a guide for our spiritual formation. A biblical background is not required. Bring a Bible if you have one or there will be one made available for you. Second Floor Library.

Lent consists of 40 days—not including Sundays—before Easter. The liturgical color for Lent is purple, a reminder of our repentance and return to God. The final week of Lent is called Holy Week and begins on Palm Sunday. As Christians reflect upon the events of Jesus’ life this week, we seek to journey with Jesus and to deepen our relationship with God.

In this Lenten season, we affirm God’s action on our behalf. This week the nature of God’s covenant is described as God’s movement within the human heart. As the heart calls, we seek reconciliation with God and one another.

April 9  Readings: Mark 14:1–15:47; Isaiah 50:4–9a; Psalm 31:9–16; Philippians 2:5–11.
The focus for Holy Week is Jesus’ identity as the Messiah-God’s chosen one to bring salvation. The name Christ marks this identity. The texts this week address what it means to be a servant of God and to serve God’s purposes. Remembering God’s promises, those who serve remain in the embrace of God’s unfailing presence.

April 16  No class. Easter Breakfast, see page 1.

Today’s passages speak of God’s gifts through Christ: peace, joy, unity, and faith. As it was with Thomas, our questions about these matters are essential. As we seek and ask, we discover the empowering nature of Christ, who receives our questions with grace and responds with generous love.

This Easter season we grow in our recognition of Jesus as the Christ, alive in our midst and empowering us for discipleship as a community of believers. Our awareness of God’s presence and purpose grows and develops as we journey in faith.

NOTE: No Church School on Easter Sunday, April 16.

Join us for the final two Sundays of our Lenten study series—Psalms: The Prayers of God’s People—from 12:30 to 2 pm in the Second Floor Parlor. Through our time of praying with the Psalms, we will seek to open ourselves to God and offer up our own prayers. Led by Judy Menk,

There is no cost for the workshops, but you have to commit to the three 3-hour sessions, the three Sunday evenings after Easter. There is also work to do between sessions. All the work you do, however, serves your growth—most likely something you wouldn’t tend to unless you did commit yourself.

EECM Food-of-the-Month Program
The East End Cooperative Ministry (EECM) Food Pantry, located in East Liberty Presbyterian Church, distributes food during the week to those persons and households living in poverty.

According to a newly released US Census data, the number of people in Allegheny County living below federally mandated poverty guidelines increased by 7,000 between 2003 and 2004. With this much human need within walking distance of ELPC, we invite you to become a regular contributor to the EECM Food Pantry by bringing a designated food to the church at least once a month. Two baskets are available for food dropped off—one inside the Highland Avenue entrance at the foot of the stairs to the second floor, and the second at the top of the stairs on the second floor. April’s item: Spaghetti Sauce.

Traditionally, the Food Pantry runs low on certain food items each month. Without your donations, EECM must purchase these items. Focusing on a particular food each month is an easy way to help reduce the purchases that are necessary.

“Eyes Wide Open” Exhibit
